MANY CHANGES TAKE PLACE IN R. D. SERVICE OF COUNTY

Many Routes Are Eliminated And a Readjustment of All is Planned

SEVERAL COMPLAINTS MADE

Under the New Arangement Nearly Every Route in the County Was Considerably Increased by New Orders.

The postoffice authorities have announced a complete change in the rural delivery routes throughout the county. Nearly every route in the county will be materially changed. The Washington county rural delivery was the fourth to be established in the United States and was considered a model system. The authorities say that it is for "the betterment of the service," but this does not hinder the many protests of the patrons.

In Washington county there are 81 rural routes which go out from 27 postoffices. Under the new provisions, which are effective June 16, 17 of these routes will be discontinued while the carriers will each be compelled to travel from four to ten miles additional. This is the second revision. When first established there were 101 rural routes and two wagon routes. The first revision cut these to 81.

The routes to be discontinued unless the patrons of these routes can prove that the taking off of the routes is detrimental instead of beneficial are: Hickory, one from Burgettstown, one from Hanlin Station, one from Dunn's Station, three from Scenery Hill, two from Beallsville, one from Claysville, one from Taylorstown, two from Amity, one from Venetia, two from West Finley, one and probably two from Canonsburg.

Three new routes are established: Two from the Fredericktown office and one from the Marianna office. Monongahela has three routes, Finleyville two, Speers one, West Brownsville one, Bentleyville one and Murdocksville three.

The revision of the system has created a great deal of complaint in the sections affected. They claim that the change will make the daily mail late in reaching its destination on many of the routes. They claim, also that in the winter season the fewer number of carriers will be unable to serve the prolonged routes on time.

TWO SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE

Local Youths to Spend Six Months in Prison For Store Robbery

GUILT PLEAS ARE ENTERED

Six months in the workhouse is the sentence that Justice of the Peace E. E. Rice imposed on Theophilis Kelow, aged 18 years, and Chaunce Mugrage, aged about 20 in connection with the entry and robbery of the grocery store of Alexander Cartoyski early Saturday morning. Both plead guilty to the charges against them. Kelow was charged with breaking into and stealing tobacco and other articles from the store, and Mugrage with receiving the stolen goods. Both are factory workers. In connection with the case case Leonard Braddock aged 14 is under police surveillance and he will be cared for by the juvenile court committee. Braddock, according to Kelow assisted him in breaking into the store, and received the goods as Kelow handed them out.

The story told by Kelow is that he and Bradoock went to the grocery store and that he tapped the window with a stick. He entered he says and handed out the gods to Braddock. It was done with the full knowledge of Mugrage, according to Kelow, and Mugrage received the goods. The supposed robbery took place before 4 o'clock Saturday morning. Klow says he had entered the store before

BENTLEYVILLE MODEL BAKERY IS DESTROYED BY FIRE; LOSS HEAVY

From an origin thought to have been the breaking of stove pipe in the attic, the Model cakery belonging to Harry Shectar, on Oak street, Bentleyville was completely destroyed by fire today at noon. In connection with the bakery a large storehouse and stable burned, both belonging to the same concern. This was one of the largest business industries in Bentleyville and a goodly number of men were employed, the bakery working night and day.

Early this morning a fire started in the attic presumably from a bursted stove-pipe. It was discovered, however, and quenched by some of the employees. At noon the fire again started in the attic and the whole interior of the attic was ablaze before the second discovery. When discovered the fire was too far under way to be quenched by the inadequate fire fighting apparatus of Bentleyville. A number of citizens responded to the call for volunteers and formed a bucket brigade. But this was of no avail.

Everything was burned, including machinery, sum totaling a loss between $10,000 and $12,000. It required the most strenuous efforts of the fire fighters to keep the nearby buildings from burning. A large stock of flour and other baking products were destroyed in addition to the original loss. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

STORY OF THRILLING RESCUE IS TOLD HERE

Miss Sophie Crowthers of Fredericktown, Saves Two Girl Companions From Drowning When Canoe Overturns.

The story of a thrilling rescue of two girl companions from drowning by Miss Sophie Crowthers, a well known woman of Fredericktown, is being repeated here, the story having been retold since the occurrence at a girl's school in the eastern part of the state a week ago. Just back from a brief trip to the seashore Miss Crowthers and her two companions went canoeing. Out in the lake a good distance, their c anoe was overturned by a large wave. Miss Crowthers is an expert swimmer, but neither of the others could swim. All had on their traveling costumes. Miss Crowthers helped one of the girls to the overturned canoe and ordered her to hang there. Then she started after the other and ashore with her. That done, she plunged back into the water to the aid of the one clinging to the canoe. She towed this companion back to shore and recovered the canoe. That was all there was to it, save the story which is now being repeated far and wide. Miss Crowthers is a niece of Mrs. John O'Neil of Fallowfield avenue.

TWO THOUSAND PEOPLE VISIT AT BATHING BEACH ON SUNDAY

Count is Taken by Pennsylvania Railroad Company At Track Crossing

WATCHMAN MAY BE STATIONED

Request of Council May be Obeyed—Rumors of Two Near Tragedies Sunday Evening at Beach Gain Some Prevalence.

Numbers count with the Pennsylvania Railroad, hence it is a pretty safe guess that a watchman will be established at the Second street crossing during the bathing season, as a response to the request of council made recently. On Sunday the actual number of crosings was counted and it ranged above 4,000.

The railroad had men on duty at the crossings all day tabulating every person who crossed. They counted people going both ways, in order to make the tally exact and to tabulate accurately the total number of crossings made. The exact number ran to approximately 4,200.

The bathing beach was the attraction since Saturday had been set as the opening date. On Sunday the houses were closed, since today will virtually mark the beginning, owing to the high water of Saturday and Sunday, together with the coolness of the water.

Estimating that 2,000 people visited the beach Sunday, some idea of the promised popularity this season of the institution can be given. One of the latest plans considered is that of the erection of a band stand for frequent evening concerts.

Two near tragedies were reported from the beach on Sunday evening. One was that aboy by the name of Linn the son of Oscar Linn, came near drowning when he went beyond his depth. He was rescued. Another was of two women who are reported to have had a narrow escape. They were pulled out.

BENTLEYVILLE COMMUNITY OBSERVES MEMORIAL SUNDAY

Extensive Exercises Carried Out by Bentleyville Folk—Many Speeches Made by Veterans.

The ruins on Decoration Day proper were so heavy in the Bentleyville community that the cemetery exercise were delayed until Sunday, June 6. Sunday the automobile owners of the community generously loaned their autos to the transportation of the veterans and others to the nearby cemeteries, including the Beallsville cemetery, Crows' cmetery, and Newkirk's cemetery.

The chief exercises were held at the Newkirk cemetery. Here the veterans, armed with flags and flowers, marched around the graves of their dead comrades strewing flowers and waving their flags. Among the speakers were A. S. Tinley, William H. Underwood, John Weaver, Samuel Wright, all veterans of the Civil war; Rev. A. Stewart Wahl and Rev. A. J. Craig. A chorus of young girls rendered the vocal music, excepting the singing of "America" which was sung by all present. Many stories of the battlefied were reated by the veterans.

MANY VISITORS AT WILSON HEIGHTS

The large number of visitors on the Wilson Heights plan of lots, Saturday and Sunday, indicates the great popular interest in the auction sale of the large lots and small farms to be held there next Saturday, commencing at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. This plan of desirable home-sites is in the 5c carfare—Bridge 2 stop—and will soon be well covered with houses, judging from the favorable comment of people generally. The highest bidders get the lots and easy terms of payment will be an inducement. Here is the house-renters' chance to get a home for his family with the money now going to the landlord. These large lots and small farms will increase rapidly in value. Profits on real estate is easier money than the wages of daily toil. Be among the earlist and get the best. One lot and gold watches given away. You are cordially invited. Ladies are especially welcome.

A FRIEND OF THE YOUNG.

It is a safe guess that the young people of Altoona have a sane and sympathetic friend in the editor of the Tribune. His interest in them and his eager wish for their welfare are reflected constantly among the editorial notes of his paper. And young people—but usually they do not know it—need an older friend. There are many occasions when simple thoughtlessness and inexperience may start the youth wrong, says an exchange, where the guiding hand or word of a person of mature years might serve to give direction to a life and so save it from shipwreck.

The following clippings from the pages of the Tribune will show the paper's attitude toward the younger people of its community:

Boys often form habits which cost them much when as men they drop them.

The boy of good habits and fine character is going to be the big man of the future.

The straight path is the only safe path, and yet, alas! how few of us are able to walk in it every day of our lives.

Whenever a girl forgets that mother—or whoever has taken mother's place—is her best friend, she is treading on dangerous ground.

The young man who begins his career by drinking himself into insensibility has made a very ominous start. He should try it over again.

There is an abysmal difference between fun and mischief. There is never anything wrong about the former; there is seldom anything right about the latter. Everywhere it should be discouraged.

If the schools are not now teaching the boys and girls the things that will be of real use to them as men and women they soon will be. But in truth they have already made a very fair start in that direction.

Efficiency is indispensable to success in the world's work; nevertheless it must be accompanied by other qualities if the advantage gained is to be permanent. An all around character is a splendid helper.

Kindness to children is the sufficient index of a good heart. And after the children have become mature men and women they cherish with loving sentiments the memory of the older people who were kind to them in childhood.

BUILDING UP A COMMUITY

Many people believe that a community is built up from the outside. It is not, it is built from the inside. It is usually exactly that kind of place that the people desire it to be—what they make it by their own efforts. It is the same in business.

Some business men complain because they do not get this or that patronage. They ask for business on the ground that they ought to be supported—that the world owes them a living. But after all a business is built up on its merits. It must make good. It must have the goods the people want.

A community or town therfore attracts interest because it has something that the people demand. It has merit. It is built upon its own intrinsic worth as a community. That is the reason then why the citizens of every community should develop those things which have merit in them, which appeal to the people. Parks and playgrounds, clean streets social and educational advantages are a part of community service, part of the assets which it possesses.

The Jones and Smith families lived side by side in a pretty little suburban village. The Jones family owned a phonograph. One night about 8 o'clock little Mary Smith rambled over and knocked on the front door of the Jones house.

"Mrs. Jones," said little Mary, when the former opened the door, "mother wants to know if you won't please lend her your phonograph?"

"My phonograph?" was the surprised response of Mrs. Jones. "What in the world does she want it for? Is she going to have a party?"

"No, ma'am," was the candid answer of little Mary. "She said she would like to bury it for a couple of hours so she could get the baby to sleep."

Speakin' About Flags

Last Saturday, W .W. Piper flung to the breeze on Wilson Heights what is believed to be the largest American flag in the Monongahela valley. This national emblem measures 22x35 feet and may be seen for miles around. The beautiful colors of "old glory" are always attractive and Mr. Piper's mammoth display of the red, white and blue on this fine elevation, makes an especially pleasing sight.

Some men seem to have married so they could have some one around on whom they can lay the blame when anything happens.

We hate to be grouchy, but this would be a better world if the finger bowls were served before meals instead of after meals. And a towel and a cake of soap should accompany each finger bowl.

The most conceited people are those who know that they are not.

A man usually waits until his wife has acquired the middle aged spread and has a flock of crow's feet under her eyes before he discovers that he might have married a woman who was younger and better looking.

Friends are nice things to have, but one enemy in good working order will give you more free advertising than 1,000 friends.

A woman's idea of the simple life would be to live in a $10,000 bungalow with a garage in the rear and to have four maids do the work and to have a liveried flunkey at the front door to take cards from callers.

Every woman knows that, if she bought a noisy hat her husband would get mad. And she also knows that when her husband sees another woman wearing a noisy hat he thinks she looks fine in it.

AUTOISTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Party of Five on Maple Creek Road Plunge Into Concrete Culvert

ONE HURT; CAR IS DAMAGED

A local party of autoists had a narrow escape and their auto was badly damaged when they bumped into a concrete culvert on the Maple Creek road Sunday night before 10 o'clock. Lawrence Lowstuter was driving the car and with him were Joseph Cottle of Charleroi, Robert Croushore of Belle Vernon and two Belle Vernon girls whose names have not been learned.

It is told that an attempt was made to pass another car when the Lowstuter auto plunged into the sides of the culvert. Cottle was the worst hurt, he being severely bumped and bruised. The others were more or less bruised, but none seriously hurt. Cottle was brought into town to the office of a physician, who gave him attention.

The automobile which was a new one had an axle bent a door torn off, and the running board and mud guard badly damaged.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE OF JESSE WILLARD'S COMING WITH WILD WEST SHOW

When Jess Willard, the Kansas cowboy, fresh from his victory over Jack Johnson, in Havana, and his managers, met the representatives of Miller Bros. & Arlington's 101 Ranch Wild West show in Kansas City and signed the memorable agreement by which the new world's champion became the big feature of the show for the current season, he immediately announced that he would make his first appearance, daily, in the Wild West arena in the role of a cowboy. Several of those present offered to secure him a cowboy outfit. The big champion smiled good-naturedly.

"Why," he said, "but home I have a whole room full of that stuff left over from the old days when the boys used to say that I could hold my own with any of them on a bucking broncho or in a round-up of wild cattle."

As a matter of fact it would be extremely difficult for Willard to utilize a borrowed cowboy costume. The new champion is a giant in stature and his shoulders and chest are in keeping with his height and the phenomenal reach of his arms. The "chaps" that would fit the ordinary cowboy's legs would just about serve as sleeves for the champion;, his high-heeled, short-vamp boots have to be made on a special last, although his feet are not out of proportion to his body and he requires a saddle much larger than the ordinary rancher utilizes.

Considerable interest has already been aroused by the announcement that Willard will be with the 101 Ranch Wild West show when it exhibits at Charleroi, Wednesday, June 16. Undoubtedly, Willard is very much in the public eye at the present time and his association with the big frontier exhibition has attracted wide attention. It is not difficult to understand why he should prefer to travel with a Wild West show of this character rather than with any of the big circuses, because, as he expresses it himself, he "wouldn't feel at home with any other kind of a tent show."

The champion, it is announced, will appear in the arena mounted and in cowboy attire. He will also appear in ring costume, with one of his sparring partners, and illustrate how the former champion was worsted in the twenty-sixth round of the big fight.

There will, it is announced, be the usual exhilarating wild west performance for which the 101 Ranch show is noted, and a picturesque street parade will inaugurate the big day.

Message No. 1

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings. Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend

Dutch Boy Beymer-Bauman Armstrong-McKelvy White Lead

By this system each individual is placed on record, showing how many places they secure credit, and with what degree of promptness they pay their bills. One of the Products of Modern Times is the Famous June White Sale at Horne's

Our grandmothers did not have the opportunities we have for obtaining exquisite wearing apparel at such—one might almost say insignificant prices. Compared with the cost of a garment in those days—when spinning wheels whirred, and flax had to be spun, before the cloth was ready for the tedious hand sewing, and even the laces were made by hand—present day prices are indeed small.

And what fascinating variety of dainty things one has for selection, only a visit to our Muslinwear Section can disclose.

Envelope Chemises are specially priced at 85c to $4.59.

Gowns of different models are specially priced 50c to $10.00.

Corset Covers of nainsook are specially priced 25c to $3.00.

Petticoats to conform to the new lines, are specially priced at 50c to $10.00.

Combination Garments are specially priced $1.00 to $7.50.

Crepe de Chine Undergarments are also offered at special June prices.

COAL WILL BE SUPERSEDED

Little Doubt That Oil Is to Be the Future Naval Fuel—Has Many Advantages.

The introduction of the use of oil as fuel upon our battleships is really the most important development in naval engineering since the advent of steam. The naval authorities have been experimenting with oil as fuel for the last fifty years, and its advantages have long been recognized, but its use has been restricted because of doubts as to the existence of a sufficient supply. It is now known, however, that enough oil exists in the public lands of California alone to supply the needs of the United States navy for a century at least.

Oil has a higher fuel value in producing steam than coal, giving a greater evaporation of water, both per pound of fuel and per square foot of heating surface. More important, however, is the fact that the fuel can be taken on board a great deal more rapidly without manual labor, and without interruption of the ship's routine. Coaling has always been a long, laborious and inconvenient process, dreaded by every branch of the service afloat.

With oil as fuel, the amount of smoke may be controlled, there are no cinders and no delays or loss of speed due to the necessity of bringing coal from a remote bunker, or to the exhaustion of the stokers. It makes possible a considerable reduction in the crew and makes less weight and space necessary for boilers. These savings in weight have made possible the use of heavier armor on the battleships Nevada and Oklahoma.

CATCHING UP WITH CHINA

Western World Has Adopted System Long Popular in Great Empire of the Orient.

Gradually, very gradually, civilization is catching up with the Chinese. The University of California has established a new profession—that of keeping people well. Those who adopt this calling will go into the world and earn fat fees by not letting folks fall ill. Sickness will mean starvation to the practitioners; a healthy populace will make them rich.

In China the doctors have never looked to the sick for business. Only while their patients were well could the physicians charge for services rendered. When a patron fell ill the doctor's income shrunk; when recovered the convalescent resumed feeing his medical adviser.

It is a good scheme, evidently, of one of the wiser world would not have taken up with it after having so many thousands of years to investigate its workings. In time, perhaps all the wisdom of the Celestials will become ours by adoption.—St. Joseph Gazette.

Rubber Armor Plate!

If the present war has proved anything it has proved the inadequacy of the protection afforded by armor plate covering the under-water vital parts of a ship. The armor does not extend sufficiently far below the water line to assure complete protection when the vessel is rolling, and in this respect a suggestion put forward by a writer in Popular Science Siftings might be worth serious consideration. Describing an experiment made in 1860 on the recoiling strength of rubber, he says that a piece of rubber two inches thick and a foot square was placed under a steam hammer and a six-inch round shot was placed on it. The hammer fell with tremendous force and broke the shot to pieces, the rubber remaining elastic and unimpaired. Results from great explosive force on rubber flooring and buffers have shown that beyond fusing by heat the rubber remained uninjured, so apparently rubber would make a ship more shot-proof than armor plate.

The Mines of Spain.

More than one-third of the quicksilver produced in the world last year came from the mines of Spain. Those mines were worked centuries before Christ, and they seem good for centuries more. Other quicksilver supplies are discovered, exploited for a time, and exhausted, but no bottom has been found to the veins of Spanish cinnabar.

Many high authorities hold that other mineral resources of Spain are quite as splendid in proportion as her supremacy in the production of mercury. Spanish iron ore is sometimes shipped to the United States, yet the mines are said to be worked in very clumsy, ineffective fashion. It is even claimed that the coal supplies of the peninsula are superior to those of any other part of the continent, but these, again, are managed in a careless, indolent, unscientific manner.

Scotch Eels.

When so many British trawlers have been commandeered and so few of the others can venture out, why is there not a more systematic slaughter of freshwater eels and of the conger eels that lurk about the masonry of old piers and other breakwaters? The rivers of Scotland swarm with eels, which are almost completely neglected as a means of making money by the natives, who themselves do not eat eels. Fish from the sea will grow scarcer and scarcer, consequently dearer and dearer, as the war goes on, and we cannot afford to ignore our eels. The board of agriculture and fisheries may presently have something to say on the matter. Meanwhile the opening for individual enterprise is obvious.

WHY REMEMBER THE UGLY?

Would Seem to Be as Easy to Recall Points of Beauty of One's Acquaintances.

Did you ever experience the sensation of hearing yourself physically described by another who did not happen to know that you were within earshot? If so you may have heard yourself pictured as "that short-legged man with the scraggly gray mustache, you know."

You may have been pained or amused—it all depends upon your sense of humor or the fitness of things. But do not despair at your portrait. Just listen some time to a pair of men when one of them is trying to recall to his companion a third individual the latter seen perhaps only once years ago by the auditor. The gentleman jogging the other man's memory is likely to sketch the absentee in a few bold strokes, something like the following:

"Oh, sure you remember him—the fellow with long yellow teeth—he parted his hair near his ear and he had a scar on his chin."

"Now, I do," cheerfully replies the other at this piece of graphic description, and then adds his own touch: "He was with a little chap who stuttered and wore big spectacles of tortoise shell!"

And the interesting question it brings up is why do people, generally speaking, remark defects and singularities rather than perfections and beauties? A man with long yellow teeth might have had fine eyes and a noble head set upon his shoulders, and a begoggled chap with a stammering tongue might have had a Greek profile and an artist's hands.

We are assured that beauty is everywhere, yet people seem to take particular note of the ugly. No doubt it is easier to see the ugly than the beautiful in humanity, but why take the easier way?

Transit of the Human Voice.

The sound of the speaking voice must be transformed rapidly into heat if it is to be heard distinctly. When the sound persists the echoes overlap and the acoustics of a room is faulty. By measuring the tones of the voice in a lecture room of Harvard university, which were at first audible for five and a half seconds after utterance, Dean Sabine of the graduate school of applied science changed the materials in the room with reference to the factors of reverberation, interference, and resonance or "echo" with pronounced success. An important article by him in the Journal of the Franklin institute concludes as follows:

"While these several factors reverberation, interference and echo, in an auditorium at all complicated are themselves complicated, nevertheless they are capable of an exact solution, or, at least, of a solution as accurate as are the architect's plans in advance of construction. And it is entirely possible to calculate in advance of construction whether or not an auditorium will be good, and, if not, to determine the factors contributing to its poor acoustics and a method for their correction."

Rough on Tommy.

The mails from home had just been received by a certain regiment. Not only were there letters but many parcels from relatives and friends at home for lucky soldiers. One of the Tommies received a large box addressed to himself, and with a triumphant yell he rushed off to his company's lines and gathered them around him to share in the eagerly anticipated contents of his box.

"Smokes lads!" he cried as he undid the wrapping. "From the old man; I know it. An' there's sure to be a bottle or two of Scotch."

He opened the box, gave one look at the contents and collapsed in a heap.

"What is it?" cried his comrades, pressing around.

"It's from old Auntie Mary," groaned the disappointed warrior. "Bandages an' ointment an' embrocation an' splints, an' a book on 'Ow to Be Your Own Surgin'!'"—London Tit-Bits.

Private Cars.

In the town of Mombasa on the East coast of Africa the private car question has been settled to the satisfaction of every white resident, by providing a private street car for each of them. The cars are pushed by a native black and are small. They are fitted with a wide seat which will hold two persons.

The tracks of this private road lead through the main streets of the town, with switches to the stores and clubs. Each owner of a car has a switch to his yard and boards his car in the same manner as an automobilist.

The road is financed by each car owner, who pays a certain sum each year for upkeep. The road is used for no other purpose than to carry the owners on their outing or calling expeditions.—Wall Street Journal.

Finding Key in Dark.

The latch key on a ring ordinarily is the most difficult to find, particularly in the dark, but if it is attached to the ring it will come out right side up and ready for use. A chain saves the annoying experience of reaching home only to discover the keys have been left at the office, but for those who do not like to carry a chain, an extra ring may be attached to the important key in place of the chain. It is then easy enough to find the ring among the keys, even in the dark, and on getting hold of it, a slight shake brings the desired key into position for use.

700TH ANNIVERSARY PLANNED FOR THE MAGNA CHARTA

Churches of the Pittsburg section are planning for the observance of the 700th anniversary of the signing of the Magna Charta by King John of England. Many of the best laws of the present day in both the United States and in Great Britian originated in this fortunate bit of jurisprudence. It will be recalled by students of history that King John was forced to sign the Magna Charta through the violence of a mob, but this is one instance in which mob violence has perpetuated good down through the ages.
